Arrange all parts. Carefully lower the top section into place while feeding the tubing down the opening. Set the top into place.

Feed the cord from the light through the opening.

Set the light into the opening and adjust the angle as desired.

Feed the light cord out the opening at the back and attach to the transformer.

Connect the tubing to the pump and place the pump inside the reservoir.

Add the decorative rocks as desired.

Ensure the pre-installed foam is positioned so that it covers the entire output area as shown. This may need to be adjusted to improve the water flow.
